The books that help children's emotional development

In early childhood, wounded feelings that are not healed adequately make it hard to develop an integrated personality afterward. This is because negative emotions are made in that period. This color book series is based on positive effects that the colors like red, blue, and yellow make.

Book 1 Red Gives You Courage

This is a story about a child who is small, weak, and shy. She always envies children with rosy cheeks, so collects red lights and sets off to meet a fairy who will make her cheeks rosy. On the way she meets a few people who have some worries. She gives away her lights to them.

Book 2 Blue Calms Your Anger

Taejun gets angry when other children tease him. Then his pet Pong, a tropical fish, takes him on a nature trip. While playing with clouds in the sky and smelling flowers in the green meadow, he calms his anger and finds his peace of mind.

Book 3 Yellow Makes You Laugh

Yeonwoo is easily scared. He sets off with a cat in yellow boots on a journey to an imaginary world, and overcomes his fear and depression.
